

Effortlessly launch and manage multilingual websites

Launching and Managing Multilingual Websites:

- Costs a lot of time, money, and effort
- Requires lots of technical development
- Involves a sheer amount of logistics and coordination

As a result, startups, SMBs, and even enterprises are missing out on potential markets

In Fact

50%

Of Fortune 500 companies' websites are not translated, including 66% of Fortune 500 retail companies

We decided to make the process effortless and smooth, how?

- Live, SEO ready, multilingual website through a simple sign up form
- No technical involvement; not a single line of code needs to be written by the user, and no integration needed
- Reduced human resources, time, and capital investment
- Total control over translation quality; machine, user's team, and professional translation options available

The time to to give the chance of going global to even the smallest of businesses has come.

Effortlessly launch and manage multilingual websites

Launching and Managing Multilingual Websites:

- Costs a lot of time, money, and effort
- Requires lots of technical development
- Involves a sheer amount of logistics and coordination

As a result, startups, SMBs, and even enterprises are missing out on potential markets

In Fact

50%

Of Fortune 500 companies' websites are not translated, including 66% of Fortune 500 retail companies

We decided to make the process effortless and smooth, how?

- Live, SEO ready, multilingual website through a simple sign up form
- No technical involvement; not a single line of code needs to be written by the user, and no integration needed
- Reduced human resources, time, and capital investment
- Total control over translation quality; machine, user's team, and professional translation options available

The time to to give the chance of going global to even the smallest of businesses has come.