The screenshot displays the Equipboard website interface. At the top, the logo "EQUIBOARD" is on the left, and navigation links "Home" and "New Equipment Board" are in the center. On the right, there are links for "Log In" and "Sign Up", and a search bar. The main content area features a profile for "Slash". On the left is a photo of Slash playing a guitar. To the right of the photo, the name "Slash" is displayed in large orange letters, with a dropdown arrow. Below the name is a bio: "Professional, Rock & Blues Rock Musician. Former member of the Hollywood Band, a 4x Grammy Award-winning musician and songwriter. He is also known as the former lead guitarist of the Hollywood band Hollywood Band & Blues, with whom he performed and recorded music." Below the bio are social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube. To the right of the bio is a sidebar with a red "Follow" button, a "Stats" section showing "100" followers, "2" items, and "1" boards, and a "Profile" section with a profile picture and a "View Profile" link. Below the profile section are three buttons: "Watch Equipment Board", "Add Items to the Board", and "Play Like Board". Below these buttons is a section titled "SLASH'S GUITARS" with a dropdown arrow. Underneath, four different electric guitars are displayed in a row: a yellow one, a red one, a dark red one, and a sunburst one.

Gibson Les Paul

"Right as this is the Les Paul for description for that isn't one. Highlights of the guitar is the Les Paul model because Gibson makes them, which was made mostly for the engine players that used to be '50s, which was really enough. There is actually the difference in the way they were designed and also some of the material that is used for different ones. The ones that were used for the engine. The main speed really. There is a little bridge or a little other. And if I got all different materials, were actually a little more to that in the thing. And the performance. And it's usually just not as much for the engine, but the material."

Gibson Slash Appetite Les Paul

Alright so this is the Appetite for Destruction Les Paul. Let's see, highlights on this guitar; is the Slash model Seymour Duncan Alnico Pros, which are made exactly like the original pickups that I used in the '80s, which, surprisingly enough, there is a pretty big difference in the way they were wrapped and also some of the material that is used has advanced over the years and these are like the originals. Old style speed knobs. Tune-o-matic bridge, or saddle rather. And it's got old fashioned capacitors, were actually a little hard to find in this thing. And the jumbo frets. And it's basically just set up exactly like my original was. And that's basically it.
